A WESTERN FAVORITE

The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal have announced their programme for 1913, and subscribers here to receive greater value than ever before and that is saying a whole lot. In this western country, such a paper is a great blessing. It interests every body. The hints and information it gives are worth hundreds of dollars in a year. New settlers cannot afford to be without such a paper, so other to fill the bill for the West like The Family Herald and Weekly Star. In addition to the paper for a whole year each subscriber receives a most beautiful picture entitled "Mother's Treasures". It is 23 by 29 inches, all ready for framing. The picture alone would sell at a two dollar bill in any art store in the big cities. Any home not now getting The Family Herald and Weekly Star should give it a trial for 1913. They will never regret it.

Messrs G. L. Gothard, Phillip Gander and C. Carrell, of the City of Edmonton, are the successful bidder for the contract for the installation of a large heating system.

Successful Convention

Teachers Enjoy Able Addresses, and Have Sociable Time

The first annual convention of the Wetaskiwin Independent Teachers' Association met in the Alexandra school, Wetaskiwin on Thursday and Friday last with President J. W. Russell, B.A., in the chair.

The minutes of the meeting at Edmonton which incorporated the Wetaskiwin district into the teachers' association, and separated it from the Northern Alberta Teachers' Association, was read, after which His Worship, Mayor Walker, gave a pleasing address of welcome. Mr. J. P. Ross, the chairman of the school board, was present, and he, too, spoke to the assembled teachers.

Three committees were appointed, namely, an auditing committee, consisting of Messrs Gibson of Round Hill and Keith of Millet; a resolution committee, consisting of Messrs J. H. Hutchison of Wetaskiwin, Cameron of Dayland and Moore of Wetaskiwin; a program committee, consisting of Messrs Garbutt of Otonari, Edwards of Leduc, and Messrs Morson of Wetaskiwin, Nelson of Westmont, Rignall of New Berlin, and Gibson of Camrose. These committees were to report at the business meeting on the last day of the association.

Miss Dickey, of the Normal school, Camrose, gave an address on "How far it is advisable to use the Look and Say Method before introducing Phonics." She viewed the question largely from the standpoint of the rural teacher, and spoke of the early movements in teaching, when the old demand was for scientific methods, based on psychology. Now, the pendulum had swung back, and instead of viewing the education of the child as a science, we look upon it now as an art, and we tend to the practical. We think of material and the child; we have a course of study and attempt, in every way, we can to relate the life out of school and in school. This movement is seen in the technical schools of the day, in our attempts to fit the child not so much for the scholarly life as for the busy, practical life of the age. A class of children came in and Miss Dickey gave a practical demonstration of the two methods commonly used in teaching reading, namely, the "Look and Say" method, and that of "Phonics." In Look and Say method the child memorizes words just as one remembers pictures. This method gives him no definite power, for it is a method that usually precedes Phonics, for the child must know a few words to analyze the words into their sounds, learning to recognize these sounds and then independently to pronounce these sounds wherever they are, and thus to make words. The chief question was the time of introducing Phonics and the primer. After much discussion, it was agreed that Phonics should be introduced as soon as the pupil has memorized a goodly number of words which he has learned by the Look and Say method and the Primer. Not until the end of the first session charts of the teacher's own making were to be used, and not the printed charts. The child must not be hurried in learning to read for it is an art that he does not require for the first two years of school life for independent acquisition of knowledge, and there are many other things, that is more necessary to teach him.

The whole afternoon was taken up in discussing Miss Dickey's excellent paper and in the discussion of the new program of studies, led by Mr. Gibson of Round Hill and Miss Goodfellow of Camrose. Discussion was very lively and evidenced how interested the teachers were.

Friday morning the session opened with a paper by Miss Scott, on "Interior Decoration of the School House and Improvement in School Surroundings." As this paper is to be published in The Times, no further mention will be made of it now, except to say in passing that Mr. McNally, Miss Scott's inspector, complimented her by saying that her paper was not more literary but that she, herself, had done what she said in the paper could be done.

Dr. Stevenson then followed with an address on School Hygiene. The application of hygiene is a most important matter for it affects the child now and the generations to come. School Pathology concerns itself with the disorders of childhood. Those come from overwork, from faulty arrangements of school furniture, and from more or less unsanitary conditions. The forcing system is very poor, and examinations were a mistake. A good physical condition is everything. The light should come in at the left of the pupil and at the back. There should be a good system of ventilation and heating. The ideal heating system was steam. A country school stove should be surrounded by sheet metal and should be provided with an air pipe. The water should be tested and there should be plenty of sunbathing and no underlying or outlying bodies of water. Dampness invariably produces debility. There should be no common drinking cup and no common towel. Dr. Stevenson also spoke of the advance in school medical inspection as seen in our larger centers.

Dr. Miller of the Camrose Normal School addressed the meeting next on the "Necessities of Manual Training in Rural Schools." He began his speech with mention of the Education Bill of 1912, which conferred the franchise on the laboring class. Then these masses had to be educated to enable them to use the franchise intelligently and a complete reform took place in educational circles. Then next the International Revolution led to a new world situation. A greater amount of money at the same expenditure.

Had had sore four years. ZAM-BUK HAS HEALED IT!
Mrs. Wibleon, 110 Vic Eton Ave. Toronto, says: "About four years ago a sore appeared on the right side of my face. This spot increased in size until it became about half an inch in diameter and very painful. I went to a doctor but the ointment he gave me did not have any good effect, and was most painful. I had it cauterized, tried poultices, and all kinds of salves, but 'twas no good, and I continued to suffer from it for four years!"
"A sample of Zam-Buk was one day given to me, and I used it. Although the quantity was so small, it seemed to do me some good so I purchased a further supply."
"Each box did me more and more good, and told my delight before I had been using Zam-Buk three weeks I saw that a month it was healed!"
"I know a lady in the east of the city whose husband suffered for years with an open sore on his leg. On my recommendation, of Zam-Buk was tried in that case. The other day when healed the sore completely."
"My daughter, who lives in Lethbridge, Alta., has also used Zam-Buk with some satisfactory result. I think it is beyond all doubt the finest healing balm known."
"Such is the opinion of all persons who have really tried Zam-Buk. It is a sure cure for eczema, piles, abscesses, ulcers, scalp sores, ringworms, cuts, burns, scalds, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box all druggists and stores or post free from Zam-Buk Co. ## A Sign of the Times

PEOPLE are becoming very careful about what they eat and drink—
The preference for goods in sealed packages—especially in food stuffs—is now quite definite and becoming more so every day.

We must frankly admit that there are sound reasons for this preference. Food stuffs cannot be exposed to varying atmospheric conditions without losing both strength and flavor.

Tea—of all articles of everyday diet (excepting coffee, perhaps) needs protection most, and best merchants have been quick to appreciate the fact. So much is this the case that the selling of loose Tea in bulk will soon be a thing of the past.

RED ROSE TEA reaches you with all its virginal flavor, strength and purity—
It is sealed in air-tight packages—dust and damp-proof—

RED ROSE is a blend of the best Indian and Ceylon Teas.
The former assures generous strength and richness—the latter that coaxing, delicate flavor, Qualities for which Red Rose Tea is famed.

A FINLAND MARKET.

The Emotional Drama of the Sale of a Bunch of Carrots.

In Finland the people still cling to the old customs—the old market days, for instance, and the market place, such as were familiar to Englishmen, is a thing of the past. There is little chance there for the middleman to make a profit in the transaction of produce from the producer to the consumer. A typical market scene is given by Paul Wainman in his book, "A Summer Tour in Finland."

"The market is a veritable delight to the eye of the visitor. It is a riot of colors, milk, butter and eggs. There are lines upon lines of quiet booths and rows of springing two-wheeled market carts, with patient little Finnish horses standing as motionless as if they had been made of the same gingerbread that a smiling market woman offered to me as I wended my way through their midst."

"Thinly clad, their skirts as they threaded their way here, there and everywhere, inspecting minutely the goods on the various stalls, they were followed by a red-checked handmaiden bearing a huge old world wicker basket, from which every variety of assortment of edibles passed out."

"At the market you can buy everything—meat, poultry, fruit, vegetables, butter, flowers, even to the humble wild lilies. The hue of the voices is astonishing. There are apparently no fixed prices, and a tragedy of renunciation may be observed in the surrender of a handful of vegetables to a customer who has bargained too hard."

"One especial bunch of carrots caught my attention. They appeared to me to be very ordinary carrots, but their owner, an old man, bent nearly double with years, lifted them tenderly from the corner of his cart. The would-be purchaser was an elderly woman with sharp features, and I could see from the first that it would go badly with that old man."

"The scene that took place between them was tragic. Every emotion of which a human creature is capable was portrayed in turn upon his face—pique, inquiry, astonishment, contempt, incredulity, wounded pride, determination, hesitation, advance, flinching up at last with triumph on the one side and resignation on the other as the bunch of carrots was carried off by the woman."

Hardly a Parallel.

Many stories are told of the wit of Sir H. Beechbole Tree, and one of the best is related by Miss Constance Collier. The incident happened while she was rehearsing the part of the heroine in a production at His Majesty's Theatre. The author of the play was there, making various suggestions.

"In this scene," he said, "the hero should pick you up, Miss Collier, and carry you off the stage across his shoulder."

Miss Collier objected, but the author insisted. Lord Sir Herbert came to the rescue.

"I saw a play in Italy once," said the latter, "in which the hero caught the heroine by the legs and banged her head on the floor."

"Splendid!" exclaimed the author. "What was the play?"

"Punch and Judy," was the actor's retort.

While We Sleep.

"God bestows his gifts during the night," says the old German proverb. Sleep itself is a great blessing, and while we sleep the clouds are storing their supplies of moisture, the rivers are performing their ministry of labor on our behalf, the seeds are swelling in the earth, the grain is springing in the fields, the fruits are ripening on the trees, the harvest is growing golden in the meadow, the dainties of the autumn night, for in truth, it is we who are asleep, and all God's gifts are being prepared our bread—Henry van Dyke.

Glad to Meet Him.

King Humbert once visited Florence and at a reception of the aristocracy inquired of each noble present what his destination was. "Nothing, majesty," was the uniform reply until it came the turn of the Marquis Ghori, who had lost sight of himself because of his manufacture of pottery. "I am a potter, majesty—a maker of majolica," said the marquis in response to the king's question. "Thank heaven!" cried the king, "there is one noble in Florence who does something."

Napoleon Before the Convention.

When Barras introduced Napoleon to the convention as a fit man to be entrusted with the command of the president's army, he said:

"Are you willing to undertake the defence of the convention?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"After a time the president continued, 'Are you aware of the magnitude of the undertaking?'"

"Perfectly," replied Napoleon, fixing his eyes upon his questioner, "and I am in the habit of accomplishing that which I undertake."

Always.

"What is the proper thing for a man to do when his wife asks him for money and he hasn't any?" queried Newed.

"Oh, there isn't any proper thing to do in these circumstances," replied Oldwud. "Anything he does will be wrong."

Criticizing the Critic.

"Criticize your essay," said De Riter's friend, "and I insist that you're beyond your depth."

"Ah," replied De Riter, "I thought he would."

"You did? Then you know what he means?"

"Yes," he quipped simply that I am beyond his depth."

HOME MISSIONS

Oct. 27. Mark 7:24-30; Matt. 8:5-13.
The two stories which form our lesson illustrate the importance of missions to Gentiles, or foreigners in our own land as well as the importance of aggressive soul winning work on behalf of our children and servants.

Briefly sketched they are as follows: A child "possessed"—a broken hearted mother—faith in a Saviour able and willing to save—and its result, heaven in the home, and its companion story:

A sick servant—a sympathetic, prayerful master—faith in a Saviour willing and able to save and its result, heaven in the home.

"Jesus left Capernaum and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into a house and would have no man know it, but... could not be hid. For a certain woman whose young daughter had an unclean spirit at his feet, and the woman was a Greek and she besought Him that He would cast forth the devil out of her child. He heard of him and came and her daughter."

Home missions should be the lever by which heathen nations are lifted. Jesus told His disciples to "go into the way of the Gentiles" for He knew that it is impossible to do much in the way of foreign missionary work until the home mission work has been established on a more solid foundation and in our lesson today He furnishes us with an illustration of work to be done at our own doors.

"A heathen woman besought Him that He would cast forth the devil out of her daughter."

What sort of a devil possessed the child?

Was it the devil of temper that made her rage like a Bengal tiger and cause the poor mother to wonder from which side of the house she had inherited such astonishing propensities?

Was it the devil which debased her from happy association with friends and school fellows and her own life but over the lives of others?

Was it the devil of determined self will which drove her to go where she pleased and do as she listed?

It was none of these; it was "an unclean devil" which had probably been for some and to which she unbarred the door of her heart when she listened to the first immodest conversation.

It did not require much ceremony nor coquetry to secure his admission to the inner recesses of her soul. He made his way as accessible as possible at first.

Before she realized it he had gained an irresistible power over her. Then he blinded her to the awfulness of sin and its consequences. Then, as Matthew says, "he became grievously vexed." It is ever his way.

What could the poor mother do?

As well might she pour kerosene on a fire to try to extinguish it as to attempt to put out the fire that had been kindled within her child.

Poor mother! Remorse was eating like a cancer at her very vitals. Life was not worth living. Why? Because the conviction was forcing itself on her that it was much her own fault.

She had neglected to bring the child into vital touch with the Saviour in sin and to exercise her in the spiritual abilities of resisting temptation.

Or she had grown so indolgent and accustomed to gratify every passion and whim that her child could conceive of no other life.

Or she had erred on the side of over-severity and had compelled obedience at the point of the bayonet and at the fear of love.

Whatever her mode of nursery government, failure had brought her to the end of all her resources and with a heart almost broken with shame and remorse she did what she should have done years before, she cast herself in utter helplessness upon One who alone can save a wayward child but who rarely saves a wayward child alone.

"She cried, saying, Have Mercy on Me, O Lord."

Not "on her," for it is not her fault but mine. In other words I need to get right with Thee as a preliminary to the saving of my child."

He brought his devil possessed child to Jesus. "He cried out with tears, Lord, I believe, help Thou my unbelief."

In both cases bitter tears were shed as the realization dawned upon them that their inconsistency their neglect, their unbelief, had been the cause of their children's misfortune.

Sentimentalists have embalm a mother's tears in song and story, but the tears this mother and father shed over the daughter and son "possessed" were drops of shame because there would have been no need for them but for their own fault.

No where in the world does cause and effect work out so inexorably as in the bringing up of children. There is hardly a drunkard, a gambler, a murderer, a thief, or an unfortunate but has a good reason to accuse the mother who bore him or her of being a partner in crime.

As Jesus beholds the children "possessed," our homes today have He ever observed a tear asked for them? Has He ever caught sight in a darkened room of a solitary form bent low in agonizing supplication for them?

The most urgent need of the home field today is for godly, praying mothers who will carry their "briars" in the arms of faith and lay them down at Jesus' feet.

The next step down was the opposition of the disciples. It would as well as though our Lord had left them to close the controversy—let us appeal to the disciples who wish to avoid further antagonism by their cries created "lessought Him say I send her away."

Then comes the third step down "I am not sent but unto the loss sheep of the house of Israel."

Did He mean that this was the generally accepted theory as to His mission? As a matter of fact He had come to seek and to save the world's lost which He meant to do through the house of Israel.

Again she draws near expressing all the agony of her desire in the brief Lord, "Lord help me," uttered in an attitude of worship.

And again He leads her down in apparently denying her request—"It is not meet to take the children's expression as common at that time bread and cast it to the dogs," as "Christian dogs" is among the Moslems.

And she said Truth Lord, or in the language of the present, True, I am only a dog, a purgry, needy, poor, contemptible, miserable dog, but...

A LUCKY DOG

I could but have you for a minute from your table.

Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O Woman, great is thy faith be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was healed from that very hour."

"Cholera Infantum"

THE SUMMER COMPLAINT OF INFANTS

Cholera infantum begins with a protracted diarrhea, the stomach becomes irritated, and in many cases vomiting and purging set in. The child rapidly loses flesh, and is soon reduced to great languor and prostration.

Cholera infantum can be quickly cured by the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Mrs. David A. Cleveland, Apple River, N.S., writes—"Last September my little boy, four years old, and little girl, two years old, were taken one afternoon with vomiting, spells, and in a few hours they had cholera infantum."

I had Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house, and commenced using it. The cholera got so bad the next day, they passed nothing but blood. I kept on using the medicine, and in a few days they were cured. I always keep a bottle in the house, as I don't think there is anything better for summer complaint than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry."

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIM

Mr. W. H. Riley, Riddell, Sask., writes:—"It is with the greatest of pleasure that I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all suffering with rheumatism. I was so bad with this terrible disease, I was unable to get up from my bed for four months, and nothing seemed to relieve me until a friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. I had my doubts about them, but was so desperate I would try anything suggested to me. After taking half a box I was able to get up, and after taking two boxes could get around quite well. After taking six boxes I was completely cured, and able to work for the first time in five months, and have not had a touch of rheumatism since. Anyone who saw me then would not know me now, as I am so strong and active since taking your valuable medicine."

FACTS ABOUT TUBERCULOSIS

It is an extraordinary fact that a cow may present a perfectly healthy appearance, thrive well upon her feed and give a good flow of milk and yet be in a badly diseased state with tuberculosis. This is very clearly brought out in a pamphlet prepared by the International Commission on the Control of Bovine Tuberculosis. Photographs are shown of fine looking animals that are known to have been diseased for years without cough and otherwise apparently healthy, and yet constantly passing tuberculosis germs that when consumed by hogs produced the disease. Such animals are a constant menace not only to the health of the herds to which they belong, but to the people who use their milk, or are otherwise associated with them.

Apart from the health standpoint the disease causes the loss of millions of dollars annually in cattle and hogs herds materially decreasing the food supply of the country. The disease is commoner in some regions than in others, in some districts it being so uncommon that to find as many as 70 to 50 per cent of the cows in a herd diseased. In lay these and many other important facts regarding the disease before cattle raisers, and others interested in live stock, a large issue of the pamphlet known as the Tuberculosis Primer was printed by direction of the Honourable the Minister of Agriculture. Those who have not already received a copy may do so by applying to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

A turnip was brought to our office this morning, which, for size and weight certainly "takes the cake" if not the "whole buttery shelf." It came from the farm of A. J. Moore & Sons, just east of town, and if that is a fair sample of what their farm can produce they have something better than a gold mine. When taken from the ground it tipped the scales at forty pounds and four ounces and after trimmed of its leaves, etc. still weighed thirty pounds and four ounces. Can any one beat this?—Dayland Press.

It is with regret that the friends of the chief of the fire brigade hear of his departure for Honolulu in the near future, with the intention of embarking in the fire brigade specially adapted him. He is entering the missionary field, and should prove second to none in training his disciples to mount Jacob's ladder, or, if a y are predestined for the lower regions he will be equally serviceable in educating them to pour chemicals on the flames. Pity such men have to go so far afield while there is room for reform at home, but alas! A prophet is no use in his own country.—Representative.

Demise of Rev. John J. Frodeen.

The host of friends of Rev. John J. Frodeen were surprised on Friday morning last to learn that he had passed away the evening previously, at the age of 65 years, the cause being heart failure. He was born in Fredryd, Sweden on the 18th of Nov., 1848. He accompanied his parents to Geneseo, Ill. in 1857. Shortly afterwards his parents died and he was advised to study at the Augustina College at Paxton. In 1870 he graduated and accepted a call to serve as assistant teacher at St. Ansgar Academy, and two years later he became principal of this institution, which he held for two years. After completing a course at the seminary in 1875, he was ordained and accepted a call from the Swedish Lutheran Church at
